JURISDICTION AND VENUE

This law suit is about the State of California whose sole focus on the funding 100% of the operations of the "Trial Court" is by generating revenue by imposing exorbitant penalties, fines and fees on all traffic court defendants which is the sole source of funding the "Trial Court Trust Fund" pursuant to California Government Code §§ 608085 (a) (1) and 77003.

The California Judicial Council's reliance on these policy and practices creates incentives for all judicial officers to find traffic court defendants guilty and to coerce payments through the threat of suspension of drivers' licenses with never having an opportunity for an ability to pay hearing before a neutral and detached judicial officer as at all times this structural conflict of interest requires the judicial officer to impose exorbitant penalty assessments fines and fees which are 2,300 % over the statutory penalty imposes for protection of the Public Safety under the California Vehicle Code.

California Judicial Council policy and practices of relying on exorbitant penalty assessments fines and fees, which is codified under California Government Codes sections 68085(a) (1) and 77003 is unconstitutional as it violates both the Due Process and Excessive Fines Clauses of the United States Constitution and exceeds the power of the California Judicial Council, which is the policymaking body of the California courts, the council is responsible for ensuring the consistent, independent, impartial, and accessible administration of justice. Judicial Council staff implements the council's policies.

Plaintiff Howard Herships brings this suit to vindicate his fundamental civil rights, obtain a TRO, invoke a Three Judge Panel pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2884 to declare these practices of 100% funding the State Trial Court from Penalty Assessments fines and fees imposed on traffic court defendants and to insure that plaintiff's rights will not be violated again, and to request a declaration from this Court that California Judicial Council policies and practices in this regard are unlawful.

JURISDICTION

1. The named plaintiff brings this action pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution as all of defendants acts were done under color of

1 State Law as plaintiff seeks declaratory relief which is unavailable in state court to enforce
2 Federal Law.

3 2. This Court has jurisdiction pursuant to U.S.C. § 1331, because this action arises under 4 the Constitution and Laws of the United States, and pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1343 (a) (3), because
5 it seeks to redress the deprivation, under color of State Law, of rights, privileges, and immunities
6 secured to the named plaintiff by the Constitution and Laws of the United States.

7 3. This Court shall file a request to the Chief Judge of the Ninth Circuit to empanel a two 8 judges pursuant to Title 28 U.S.C. § 2284 to determine the Constitutionality of California
9 Government Codes sections 6805(a) (1) and 77003, which provides for the majority of funding
10 the Trial Courts of California by having the judicial officers having a financial interest in the in 11 the outcome of the case. This Court has jurisdiction pursuant to Title 28 U.S.C. § § 2201 & 2202
12 for declaratory and injunctive relief and Rules 57 and 65 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

13 4. Venue is proper pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391 (a) (2) & (b) (1) as these actions of 14 defendant Director of Department of Motor Vehicles is by state wide application within the 15 meaning of subsections (a) (2) and that Defendant Director of California Judicial Council office is 16 within this Court's Judicial District.

17 PARTIES

18 5. Plaintiff Howard Herships, held a California Drivers' License in the State of California
19 and received two "Red Light Camera Tickets" for making a Rights Turn on a red Light in 20 California the maximum statutory fine for said violation of California Vehicle Code § 21453 (b)
21 is $35.00.

22 6. Defendant California Judicial Council is responsible for ensuring the consistent,
23 independent, impartial, and accessible administration of justice. Judicial Council staff implements
24 the council's policies and operates at all times under color of State Law

25 7. California Judicial Council fully funds the California Trial Court by imposing penalty
26 assessments, fines and fees on all traffic court defendants over and above the Statutory Fine
27 imposed by creating "Structural Conflict of Interest" which creates an incentive for each and 28 every judicial officer to find the traffic court defendants guilty and impose exorbitant penalty

1 assessments, fines and fees done solely to fully fund the Trial Court Trust Fund in an annual 2 amount of some 1.8 billion dollars, see Exhibits 1 at page 8 and Exhibit 2 at page 11.

3 8. California Judicial Council totally relies on these penalty assessments to fund the day to 4 day operations of the Trial Court and never permits an ability to pay hearing and nor could they 5 as the very judicial officer's sole source of their salary and benefits are paid by the imposition of 6 the penalty assessments, fines and fees, as the State Government fund to the State Court is only 7 2.8 million dollars, see Exhibit 3 at page 31.

8 9. Defendant Judicial Council policy and practices places this "Structural Conflict of 9 Interest" which prevents any neutral and disinterested judicial officer from making a 10 determination on an ability to pay hearing as it is very judicial officer's salary and benefits which 11 are stake .

12 10. Defendant Sacramento County Superior Court is required to enforce the Constitution
13 of the United States and apply the law under the "Supremacy Clause of the Constitution" requires
14 a neutral and disinterested judicial officer in first instant and operates under Color of State Law

15 11. Defendant Sacramento County Superior Court never provides a neutral disinterested
16 judicial officer at any time as can be shown in Plaintiff's filing of Defendant Superior Court form
17 for "Ex Parte Application for Modification of Sentence for Ability To Pay" in which the judicial 18 officer denied said request even through plaintiff made a showing, which required the granting of 19 the reduction of the penalty assessments under Rule 4.335 (c) (1) (4) as plaintiff at all times
20 relevant was on Public Benefits and had no ability to pay the $1,540.00 penalty assessments, fines
21 and fees. See Exhibit 4 at page 38-39.

22 12. Defendant Superior Court did these acts even after this very Court requested
23 mediation of the issues of suspension of plaintiff's driver's license without a pre-suspension 24 hearing.

25 13. Defendant Superior Court in violation of the 8th Amendment the United States
26 Constitution imposes "Excessive Fines" against plaintiff by some 2,300% of the original fine of 27 $70.00 and done solely to fund the Trial Court Trust Fund by making plaintiff pay some $1540.00
28 for reinstatement of plaintiff's Drivers license in violation of clearly establish United States

1 Supreme Court Law.

2 14. Defendant Jean Shiimoto is the Director of California Department of Motor Vehicles
3 and the Directors duties requires the director to comply with clearly established United States
4 Law on giving a pre-suspension hearing prior to any suspension of a drivers' license and operates
5 under color of State law. impossible

6 FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

7 15. This law suit is brought in connection with the notice given by the United States
8 Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division "Dear Colleague" letter dated March 14, 2016, sent 9 to the California Judicial Council and which was requested that the letter be forward to every 10 judge in your jurisdiction.

11 16. The Judicial Council of California is the rule-making arm of the California court
12 system. The Judicial Council receives it jurisdiction under the California Constitution and under 13 the leadership of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of California Defendant Tani Cantil-
14 Sakauye.

15 17. The Judicial Council is responsible for "ensuring the consistent, independent,
16 impartial, and accessible administration of justice." It was created by an amendment to article VI
17 of the California Constitution in 1926.

18 18. California in 1997 unified the California trial Courts into one trial Court and enacted
19 Senate Bill 430, which amended California Government Code sections 68085 which provided for 20 all funds collected by imposition of penalty assessments, fines and fees shall be deposited into the 21 Trial Court Trust Fund held by the Controller of the State of California and shall used for the 22 purpose of funding court operations. (Emphasis Added).

23 19. California Government Code section 77003 defines just what the trial court trust fund
24 pays for which includes the all judicial officers salary and benefits. (Emphasis Added).

25 20. California statutory plan for funding of the trial court 100% operation of traffic court
26 on the judicial officers who after finding traffic court defendants guilty impose exorbitant penalty
27 assessments and fines of traffic court defendants done solely to fund the trial court day to day
28 operations including payment of the judicial officers' salary and benefits, there is no other source

1 of funding.

2 21. These practices of the California Judiciary places the actual judicial officers "situation
3 in which an official perforce occupies two practically and seriously inconsistent positions, one
4 partisan and the other judicial, [and] necessarily involves a lack of due process of law in the trial
5 of defendants charged with crimes before him."

6 22. California's imposition of penalty assessments of fines and fees are all done without 7 any ability to pay, which amounts to thousands of dollars, which are used as the only source of 8 trial court funding as California Trial Court receives annually some 1.8 billion dollars annually,
9 see Exhibit 1, page 8, showing that the penalty assessments, fines and fees generated some 10 $1,872,169,432.00 from traffic court cases.

11 23. The only other source of funding that the Trial Court receives from the State Budget is 12 some 2.8 million dollars, see Exhibit 3 at page 31.

13 24. California Judicial Council position as asserted in its publication California Judicial 14 Benchguide § 83.16 holding that it "is not constitutionally infirm" to impose the thousands of 15 dollars of penalty assessments fines and fees and then suspend a defendants drivers license
16 all done without providing a pre-suspension hearing or determining the ability to pay said
17 fine. See Exhibit 5 at page 41.

18 25. The penalty assessments fines and fees imposed by defendants Judicial Counsel and 19 Superior Court are not subject to any ability to pay hearing and as stated above defendant Judicial 20 Council take position that it is not constitutionally infirm to impose fines when the defendant has 21 not ability to pay and the traffic court defendants can have their drivers' license suspended as 22 punishment in direct violation of clearly established United States Supreme Court Law, which 23 requires a pre-suspension hearing.

24 26. Defendant Sacramento County Superior Court is being sued based upon their failure to 25 provide an ability pay hearing which comports to Due Process of Law, in that the current
26 statutory provisions for funding the trial court in Sacramento County deprives traffic court
27 defendants of their rights to a "neutral and detached" judicial officer as the current funding source
28 for the all court operations is limited to the "Trial Court Trust Fund" which is funded by guilty

1 verdicts on traffic court cases and the penalty assessments imposed on every case which annually
 2 collects some 1.8 billion dollars see Exhibits 1 page 8 and Exhibit 2 at 11 states the annual
 3 revenue going to the trial Court Trust Fund is some 1.8 billion dollars.

4 27. Traffic Courts in California routinely impose exorbitant penalty assessments/fines and 5 fees on all traffic court cases over and above the statutory fines for imposed to public the public
 6 safety, Codified as California Vehicle Code § 42008.8 (a) (b).

7 28. Defendants Judicial Council and Superior Court County of Sacramento policy and 8 practices creates this "Structural Conflict of Interest" where defendant Superior Court judicial 9 officer admitted that in the Reporters' transcript "I'm not ..I'm not in a position to rule the 10 constitutionality of something." Even though the Constitution is the Supreme Law of the Law
 11 and here the Defendant Superior Court acts are done to maximize the collection of penalty
 12 assessments fines and fees in violation of the 14th Amendment Due Process of Law and 8th
 13 Amendment excessive fines of some $1,540.00 all done to directly fund the Trial Court Trust
 14 Fund. See Exhibit 6 at page 42.

15 29. Defendants Judicial Council and Sacramento Superior Court failures to comply
 16 with the United States Supreme Court clearly established law, (Beardon vs. Georgia), that a 17 defendant cannot be punished for his inability to pay a fine imposed when the judicial 18 officer refused to hear plaintiff's request on July 8, 2015, for an ability to pay hearing,
 19 which the judicial officer denied and imposed an additional $650.00 and required plaintiff
 20 herein pay the full amount and suspended plaintiff's drivers license all done in furtherance 21 of the defendants 'Structural Conflict of Interest' created for the sole purpose to fund the 22 complete operation of the trial court including payment of her salary and benefits. See 23 Exhibit 7 at page 43.

24 30. Defendants herein at the request of this very Court entered into a stipulation to 25 provide plaintiff with an ability to pay hearing of the $1,540.00 penalty assessments imposed 26 against plaintiff and the suspension of his drivers' license until the exorbitant fees are fully 27 paid, see Exhibit 8 at page 44.

28 31. Plaintiff submitted the Defendants' form "Ex Parte Application for Modification

1 of Sentence Based upon the Ability to Pay showing that Plaintiff had no ability to pay the 2 penalty Assessments fines and fees imposed by Defendant Superior Court as plaintiff was at 3 all times on a public benefits program, (Med-Cal), and which required a reduction of the 4 penalty assessments under Rule 4.355 (c) (1) (4) see Exhibit 9 at pages 45-47.

5 32. Defendant Superior Court not only denied said application on the ability to pay
6 but actually by letter from defense legal counsel (Michael Fox), on Feb. 8, 2017, imposed an 7 additional penalty payment on plaintiff of $50.00 to GC Services, which does not reduce the 8 penalty assessments, but is a fee required to enroll in an "Amnesty Program" without 9 making a determination on plaintiff's ability to pay, when in fact plaintiff does not even 10 have $266.00 required to even start the "Amnesty program", see Exhibit 10 at pages 48-50.

11 33. Defendant Superior Court incentive to collect the whole penalty assessments and 12 fines and fees is shown in the judicial officer's denial of plaintiff's Ex Parte Application 13 which never addressed the ability pay and actually imposed an additional payment of 14 $50.00 which there is no state statute authorizing said payment to GC Services.

15 34. These acts of the Defendant Superior Court proves that the Judicial Officer's
16 first looks is to maximizes the cash flow to the Trial Court Trust Fund by imposing full 17 payment of every penalty assessments regardless of the traffic court's defendants ability to 18 pay as these very judicial officers' income and benefits are at stake and come first as 19 according to the Traffic Court judicial officer in plaintiff's case asserted that the judicial 20 officer is not permitted to rule on Constitutional Issues it is strictly prohibited as the 21 exhibits show a pattern by Defendant Superior Court has no intentions of reducing any 22 traffic court defendants penalty assessments, fines and fees as the vey funding for the trial
23 court trust come first over a defendants' rights to an ability to pay hearing. See Exhibit 6 at 24 page 42.

25 35. Defendants practices policies place the burden of funding of the trial court on all
26 traffic court defendants who elect to proceed to a trial is borned by defendants in traffic 27 court as there is not prospect for a neutral and detached judge in the first instance as the 28 interest of the Judicial Officer must continue to fund the operation of the very court which

1 is required to maintain the day to day funding as the State budget does not fund trial court
2 and as such this creates "Structural Conflict of Interest" to fund the trial court trust fund
3 first and deny each and every traffic court defendant their federal rights to a neutral and 4 detached judicial officer.

5 36. Defendant California Judicial Council use of the earmarking imposing penalty
6 assessments fines and fees to generate revenue for court operations and its budgetary 7 operations violate plaintiff federal constitutional rights to a fair hearing in the trial court as 8 it places the Judicial Officer to fund the court first over plaintiff's rights to a fair and 9 impartial decision maker.

10 37. Defendants herein acts in this case in entering into a stipulation that they would 11 entertain plaintiff Ex parte Application for Modification of Judgment on the Ability to Pay
12 was done in bad faith as not only was the request summarily denied without any hearing
13 but the Judicial Officer conveyed an offer to plaintiff via defense legal counsel that the only 14 way plaintiff can have drivers license reinstated is to pay the full amount and actual 15 increased the fine by another $50.00 requiring plaintiff to make a payment to GC Services
16 which does not even reduce the $1,540.00 penalty assessments. Fines and fee and which is 17 not authorized by State Law, see Exhibit 8 page 44 and compare Exhibit 11 at page 52.

18 38. It is illogical to expect that a court to be self funding through imposing penalty
19 assessments and fines and fees as it would create not only the appearance of a denial of Due 20 Process but an actual violations of Due Process of Law as the Trier of Fact imposition of 21 penalty assessments, fines and fees, which have no relationship to the operation of the 22 statutory penalty for protection of public safety, as here the statutory penalty was $70.00
23 but penalty assessment, fines and fees are $1,540.00 which is a 2,300% increase all done to 24 solely fund the trial courts trust fund in California, which is sued as the sole source of 25 funding for the courts.

26 39. Defendants' Court policy and practices of funding all of the trial court's 27 operation by the imposition of penalty assessments, fines and fees imposed after a guilty 28 verdict by the judicial officers creates a situation in which requires the judicial officer to

1 forget the burden of proof required to convict the defendants and “not to hold the balance
2 nice, clear and true between the state and the accused.”

3 40. Here defendants sole purpose here is to collect the full amount of the $1,610.00
4 penalty assessments fines and fees despite the showing of very limited income and having no
5 ability to pay the penalty assessments fines and fees of $1,540.00 and done solely to maintain
6 the high contributions to the trial court trust fund for the continuing operations of the trial
7 court and payment of all judicial officer throughout the State of California and to never 8 reduce the penalty assessments based upon the ability to pay of the traffic court defendants, 9 which is done to maintain the high level of funding for the court.

10 41. Defendants funding of the State Trial Court is unconstitutional as the defendants
11 Judicial Council and Sacramento County Superior Court controls the financial assessments
12 which gives the judicial Officers an incentive to generate income for the trial courts which 13 deprives defendants of their rights to a neutral and disinterested judicial officer at any 14 hearing including the ability to pay hearing.

15 42. Plaintiff herein has absolutely zero chances of receiving a fair and impartial
16 determination of the ability to pay hearing by defendant Superior Court, as can be showing 17 by the hearing officer who ruled on plaintiff's Ex parte Application for Modification of 18 Sentence based upon the ability to pay under Rule 4.335 (c) (1) & (4), who be way of settling 19 this case actual imposed an additional $50.00 fine payable to a debt collection assigned by 20 the defendant Superior Court see Exhibit 10 pages 48-50.

21 43. Defendants acts of full funding the Trial Court is unconstitutional as it requires 22 that the State Government must full fund the trial court as permitting the judicial officer to 23 make the judicial officers partisan to maintain the high level of contribution from guilty 24 verdict in traffic court and imposition of penalty assessments, fines and fees to fully fund the 25 trial court through the Trial Court Trust Fund is unconstitutional as the gives the judicial 26 officer an incentive to generate income for the trial court.

27 44. Plaintiff has no prospect of ever having his life time suspension of drivers license
28 reinstated as defendant Superior Court position is that they punish plaintiff due to poverty

1 and being able to pay the penalty assessments which fully fund the California Trial Court
2 system in violation of the Beardon vs. Georgia.

10 46. The Due Process Clause prevents a denial of judicial officers who have a direct

12 47. Defendants Judicial Council and Superior Court of Sacramento County policies
13 and practices by funding of the State Trial Court by having the judicial officers imposing 14 penalty assessments, fines and fees on all traffic court defendants for the sole purpose of 15 fully funding the state trial court.

16 48. Defendants policies and practices creates a “Structural Conflict of Interest”
17 which creates an incentive to the judicial officer find traffic court defendants guilty and 19 for life.

20 49. Defendants Policies and Practices which deprives traffic court defendants to a

28

1           50. Plaintiff has no ability to obtain an Ability to Pay Hearing from a Neutral and
2 detached judge, as every judicial Officer's salary and benefits are paid from the very trial
3 court trust fund which the very penalty assessments fines and fees are actually deposited 4 into.

5           51. Plaintiff herein is suffering irreparable damages as a direct and proximate result 6 of the Defendants Judicial Council and Sacramento County Superior Court violations of 7 plaintiff federal protect constitutional rights to have a neutral and detached judicial officer
8 who has no direct pecuniary interest in hearing the ability to pay hearing as defendants
9 Superior Court judicial Officers salaries and benefits are paid solely from the very penalty
10 assessments imposed and there are no other source of payments for the salary and benefits.

11           52. Plaintiff has no prospect under Defendants policies and practices of both the 12 defendants Judicial Council and Superior Court to ever have his driver's license reinstated
13 as defendants practices and policies requires the Judicial Officers to impose the maximum 14 penalties to insure that the Judicial Officer will be paid their salaries and benefits as it is 15 the only source of payments is from the Trial Court Trust Fund there is no other source of 16 funding by the State of California.

17           53. Defendants Judicial Council and Superior Court of Sacramento County acts are 18 excess of their jurisdiction as it prevents each and every traffic court defendant from 19 receiving a decision by a neutral and detached judicial officers as under Defendants theory 20 all traffic court defendants are guilty and should pay for the day to day operations of the 21 trial court plus the salaries and benefits of all the judicial officers and all traffic court
22 defendants are not entitled to a neutral decision maker at any time in the process.

23           54. As a direct and proximate result of the defendants Judicial Council and Superior 24 Court of Sacramento actions, plaintiff have and continues suffer, irreparability injury to 25 plaintiff's Constitutional Rights as plaintiff has no ability to receive a neutral and detached 26 judicial officer who does not have a direct pecuniary interest in the reduction of the penalty
27 assessments fines and fees imposed as defendants judicial council and superior court
28 current source funding for trial court judges is solely dependent on payment of the salary

1 and benefits from penalty assessments fines and fees.

2 55. Declaratory and injunctive relief and a TRO is necessary to remedy the 3 defendants illegal and unconstitutional violation of plaintiff's rights which denies plaintiff's 4 rights to neutral and detached judicial officer as under current funding provisions of 5 California Government Code sections 68085(a) (1) and 77003 the total funding of the trial
6 court all done from penalty assessments, fines and fees as the only way the judicial officer
7 can get paid is from the finding all traffic court defendants guilty and impose the exorbitant
8 penalty assessment all done to provide the only funding to the trial court as well as the only 9 way that the judicial officer can be paid is from the penalty assessments imposed upon a 10 traffic court conviction.

11 SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
12 VIOLATION OF EXCESSIVE FINES CLAUSE
13 OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT TO THE 14 UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION

15 56. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference each and every allegation set 16 forth in paragraphs 1 through 55 above.

17 57. The Excessive Fines Clause of the Eight Amendment to the United States
18 Constitution prohibits the State Government from imposing a monetary penalty that is 19 grossly disproportionately to the offense it is designated to punished.

20 58. Plaintiff's statutory penalty for making a right turn on a red light is a $35.00
21 penalty and plaintiff has two counts so the maximum penalty would be $75.00; however,
22 irrespective of plaintiff's rights to be free from Excess fines defendants imposed additional 23 fines of $1,540.00 for making a Right Hand turn on a red light making the total fine to be 24 $1,610.00. See Exhibit 7 page 43.

25 59. Defendants Judicial Council and Superior Court of California, County of 26 Sacramento's policy and practices of why to impose said penalty assessments fines and fees
27 was done for the sole purpose to fund the operations of trial court and to pay the salaries
28

1 and benefits of the judicial officers who fund plaintiff guilty, imposed the penalty
2 assessments and denied the ability to pay hearing as well as the Ex Parte Application for 3 Modification of Sentence Base Upon the Ability to Pay.

4 60. Defendant Sacramento County Superior Court, Judicial Officer who denied
5 plaintiff's Ability Pay hearing actually imposed an additional $50.00 penalty against 6 plaintiff when defendants required plaintiff to pay GC Services a $50.00 enrollment fee in 7 which there is no credit against the $1,540.00 penalty assessments and the $50.00 is not
8 authorized by State Statute.

9 61. Defendants Judicial Council and Sacramento County Superior Court practices of 10 imposing Excess Fines in violations of the 8th Amendments is done for one reason is force 11 plaintiff to pay the exorbitant fees or plaintiff's drivers' license will be suspended for life or 12 until exorbitant penalty assessments are full paid, see exhibit 7.

13 62. Defendants Judicial Council and Superior Court of Sacramento County have no
14 rational basis for imposing the $1,540.00 penalty assessment fines and fees which are being 15 done to illegally fund the very trial court.

16 63. Defendants Judicial Council, Superior Court California County of Sacramento
17 and Jean Shiimoto then in furtherance of defendants illegal violations of plaintiff federal 18 constitutional Rights suspended plaintiff's drivers license for non-payments of the 19 exorbitant penalty assessments for life or until the full payment of the $1,610.00.

20 64. Defendant Superior Court County of Sacramento even after plaintiff filed this 21 very action Defendant Superior Court offer by defense legal counsel asserted that defendant
22 Court will not reduce the penalty assessments fines and fees so "the total fine must be 23 reasonable and compatible with the defendant's financial ability. See Exhibit 10.

24 65. In Fact the Judicial Officer through legal counsel asserted that the only way that 25 plaintiff can get his drivers' license reinstated is to pay the full amount and plus a pay an 26 additional $50.00 to GC Services, which is not even authorized by state law. see Exhibit 10

15           68. Defendant Jean Shiimoto as Director of California Department of Motor Vehicles 16 policies and practices are contrary to clear established United States Supreme Court Law, which 17 requires that prior to any suspension of a driver's license requires a hearing by the department of 18 motor vehicles mandated by clearly established United States Supreme Court Law.

19           69. Defendant Director of DMV is well aware of those requirements as the very 20 department has been successfully sued and had to pay some 5.6 million dollars for illegal 21 suspension of drivers' licenses.

22           70. Here defendant Shiimoto while operating under Color of State Law has suspended
 23 plaintiff's driver's license for life and has at all times refused to provide a hearing on the ability
 24 pay and refused at all times to provide a pre-suspension hearing to make any determinations.

25           71. Defendant Shiimoto suspension was predicated upon the imposition of penalty 26 assessments fines and fees without any ability hearing in which the trial court imposes these 27 penalties for the sole purpose to fund both the trial court trust fund as well as payments of the trial
 28 courts' judicial officers salaries and benefits, thusly creating a "Structural Conflict of interest and

1 incentive to insure that the trial court judicial officers impose a sufficient number of guilty
2 verdicts and impose the maximum penalty assessments so that all judicial officers can be paid and 3 collect their benefits see California Government Code §§ 68085 (1) (a) and 77003.

4 72.. Defendant Shiimoto knew at all times that plaintiff's suspension was not for public
5 safety but was punishment for not paying the exorbitant penalty assessments which are generated
6 solely to fund the trial courts in violation of clearly established Federal Law, by the United States
7 Supreme Court.

8 73. Defendant Shiimoto knew at all times that the State of California could not punish a 9 traffic court defendant based upon their failure to pay an exorbitant penalty assessments which is 10 used implemented to pay the very judicial officers salary and benefits.

11 74. Defendant Shiimoto her acts were done knowingly in violation of Federal Law and 12 were done with Malice, willfully, wantonly and maliciously chose to proceed by suspending
13 plaintiff;' drivers license knowingly to punish plaintiff in direct violation of clearly established
14 federal law even done after plaintiff notified defendant Shiimoto of these illegal acts.

15 75. Defendant Shiimoto refused to correct these illegal acts and just continued in her on 16 toward ways.

17 76. Plaintiff has been injured by defendant Shiimoto acts under Color of State law in 18 violation of title 42 USC § 1983 in defendant Shiimoto reckless and total disdain of the 19 controlling established federal law.

20 77. Defendants Shiimoto acts were and are being done maliciously, wantonly to further
21 injure plaintiff and punitive damages must imposed against defendant Shiimoto for her total
22 disregard for the rule of law as the Department had already been held to violate the law and had a 23 judgment imposed of some 5.6 million dollars for the very same acts.

24 78. Defendant Shiimoto has deprived plaintiff of his drivers' license for some 19 months
25 all done illegal in direct violation of United States Supreme clearly established law.

26 79. Plaintiff has been serious injured by these blatant acts of defendant Shiimoto who 27 knowingly decided to violate clearly established law and violate plaintiff federal constitutional 28 rights and done maliciously in wanton disregard of plaintiff's rights to a pre-suspension hearing.

REQUESTED RELIEF

WHEREFORE, plaintiff respectfully requests that this Court provide the following relief:

a. In panel a Three Judge Court pursuant to 28 U S C § 2284 to declare the Defendants' scheme to fund 100% of the trial court operations as unconstitutional:

b. Issue a Preliminary Injunction declaring that the defendants' policies, practices, acts and/or omissions as described herein are unlawful and violate Plaintiff's rights under the Constitution and laws of the United States of a fair and impartial decision maker in traffic court proceedings:

c. Preliminary and permanently enjoin the defendants, their subordinates, agents, employees, representatives, and all others action or purporting to act in concert with them or on their behalf from funding the trial court via penalty assessments, fines fees which sole purpose was and used for fully funding the court:

d. Prohibiting and enjoining defendants, their subordinates, agents employees, representatives, and all other acts in concert with them or on their behalf from issuing or process of orders of driver's licenses suspension for unpaid traffic Court judgments until such time as defendants provide an ability to pay hearing which complies with Due Process of Law i.e. a fair and impartial decisions maker;

e. Preliminarily and permanently issue an injunction ordering defendants to reinstate Plaintiff's drivers license suspended based upon an unpaid traffic court judgment and enjoining defendants from requiring plaintiff to pay for the reinstatement of plaintiff drivers' license as a condition of such reinstatement.

f. Order defendants to stop the imposition of penalty assessments and fines and fees on traffic tickets that are not geared not toward addressing public safety, but rather toward raising revenue for the day to day operations of the Court system as it cast doubt on the impartiality of the tribunal, which creates a "Due Process" violation as the judicial Officer has a direct/indirect pecuniary interest in imposing the assessments/fines and erode trust between local governments and their constituents;

g. Order defendant Director of DMV to notify all traffic court defendants that have had

1 their drivers licenses suspended without proving an ability pay hearing as is required by federal 2 law;

3 h. For actual damages against the defendant Shiimoto as Director of DMV while 4 operating under Color of State Law for suspension of plaintiff's drivers license without a Due
5 Process of Law hearing on the ability to pay subject to proof;

6 i. For punitive damages against defendant Shiimoto for her willful violation of while 7 operating under color of State Law as the very Department was put on notice in 2008 by a civil 8 suit which resulted in a settlement of 5.6 million dollars and the Departments continued in its 9 untoward ways and refuses even after requesting a hearing;

10 j. Award plaintiff his litigation costs pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1988 and other applicable 11 law; and

12 k. Grant all such other relief and further relief as this Court may deem necessary and/or 13 appropriate in the interest of justice.

*Re: Report of Trial Court Revenue, Expenditure, and Fund Balance
Constraints for Fiscal Year 2015–2016, as required by Government
Code sections 68502.5(b) and 77202.5(b)*

Dear Senator Mitchell, Senator Lara, Assembly Member Ting, and Assembly Member Fletcher:

Attached is the Judicial Council report required by Government Code sections 68502.5(b) and 77202.5(b) on trial court financial information for fiscal year (FY) 2015–2016. The council respectfully reports the following financial data from all fund sources, by individual trial court, with totals for all trial courts: revenues; expenditures at the program, component, and object levels; and fund balances.

As noted, the revenue, expenditure, and fund balance information is consolidated from all operational fund types: General Fund, Special Revenue Fund, Debt Service Fund, Capital Projects Fund, and Proprietary Fund. This information was compiled from data reported by the trial courts as of June 30, 2016, in their FY 2015–2016 fourth quarter Quarterly Financial Statements.

Attachment 1 displays the FY 2015–2016 total revenues in three categories: state financing sources, grants, and other financing sources. The majority of the courts' revenue in the state financing sources category as well as their total revenue funding is provided by the Trial Court Trust Fund. State financing sources also include reimbursements for court interpreters and other costs. Grant funding for Assembly Bill 1058 (Stats. 1996, ch. 957) child support commissioners/facilitators is a significant portion of grant revenue. Local fees and the recovery of costs for comprehensive collection programs are significant portions of other financing sources of revenue.

Attachment 2 displays total expenditures at either the element or component level. Elements and components refer to expenditures as they relate to court functions and activities. The bulk of the program expenditures are for support of judges and courtrooms as well as services and activities necessary to support criminal, civil, and family and dependency case processing. Definitions for the court program element and component expenditures or component type displayed in Attachment 2 are provided in Attachment 5.

Attachment 3 displays total expenditures by object. An "object" refers to the type of costs incurred, such as salaries, supplies, or equipment. Aside from prior year adjustments, the four areas with reported FY 2015–2016 expenditures were personal services, operating expenses and equipment, special items of expense, and capital costs. The personal services object refers to court employee salaries and benefits. Operating expenses and equipment include, but are not limited to, contracted services and general expenses such as supplies, printing, utilities, information technology, and equipment. Special items of expense comprise items such as juror costs, grand jury costs, and debt service. Lastly, capital costs are court construction expenditures. Nearly all of the courts' expenditures relate to either personal services or operating expenses and equipment.

Attachment 4 displays court fund balances by constraint classification consistent with Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Statement No. 54, which requires, for reporting periods beginning after June 15, 2010, fund balances to be reported within either the nonspendable, restricted, committed, assigned, or unassigned classifications (see definitions below). On October 20, 2006, the Judicial Council adopted a trial court fund balance policy that required courts to classify their fund balances according to various classifications, including statutory and contractual obligations, planned uses, and operating and emergency funds. On October 29, 2010, the council revised the policy to be consistent with the requirements of GASB Statement No. 54, which also included a requirement that trial courts maintain a minimum operating and emergency fund balance.

February 10, 2017

The trial courts' ability to carry fund balances for use in the following year allows them to manage their budgets to meet near-term operational obligations as well as achieve intermediate and long-term goals. Government Code section 77203, as of June 30, 2014, limits this ability to carry over fund balances to no more than 1 percent of the courts' operating budget from the prior fiscal year and excludes from this 1 percent cap a number of unspent statutorily restricted monies that trial courts can carry forward from one fiscal year to the next.

Table 1 displays the classifications of FY 2015–2016 ending fund balances for the 58 trial courts combined. Of the total, 91.1 percent of statewide fund balances were nonspendable or beyond the discretion of any individual court, and 7.5 percent were for planned uses ("assigned"), including, but not limited to, one-time employee compensation costs, professional services costs, one-time facilities, technology, and other infrastructure costs. Only 1.4 percent of statewide fund balances were unassigned.

Table 1: Statewide Constraints on Ending Fund Balances as of June 30, 2016

| Classifications      | Amount        | Percentage of Total |        |
|----------------------|---------------|---------------------|--------|
| Nonspendable         | $12,239,199  | 5.8%                | 91.1%  |
| Restricted           | 70,848,296    | 33.3%               |        |
| Committed            | 110,820,639   | 52.0%               |        |
| Assigned             | 16,036,473    | 7.5%                | 7.5%   |
| Unassigned           | 3,004,300     | 1.4%                | 1.4%   |
| Classification Total | $212,948,907 | 100.0%              | 100.0% |

Definitions and examples for these constraint classifications are provided below.

- Nonspendable Fund Balance. Funds that are either not expected to be converted to cash, including prepayments, or are legally or contractually required to be maintained intact. Examples of prepaid items are retirement contributions, rent, inventory, and insurance. Amounts that are legally or contractually required to be maintained intact include payroll impress accounts with third parties, and the principal of a permanent fund.

- Restricted Fund Balance. Funds on which constraints are imposed externally or by law. An example of an externally imposed constraint is monies received by a grantor that can be used only for the purpose defined by the grant such as AB 1058 child support enforcement grants. Constraints imposed by law include amounts of unspent revenues received—the use of which is statutorily restricted—such as children’s waiting room revenues.
- Committed Fund Balance. Funds specifically committed to satisfy contractual obligations and constraints imposed by formal action of the Judicial Council. The constraints related to contracts may reflect obligations that are expected to be met within the next fiscal year or crossing multiple years. The constraints imposed by the council include requiring courts to maintain a minimum operating and emergency reserve meant to address temporary cash flow shortages, budgetary deficits, and costs associated with unanticipated or emergency needs.
- Assigned Fund Balance. Assigned funds are designated at the policy direction of each court’s presiding judge or designee to address strategic goals of the courts. These funds are intended to be used for specific purposes or designations for which there is no current legal or contractual obligation, but are identified as part of courts’ responsible fiscal planning in order to meet appropriate management objectives. The council’s policy requires courts to report the assigned fund balance using specific categories, including one-time employee compensation costs, professional and consultant services costs, local infrastructure needs, one-time facility costs, and bridge funding. Examples include: funds for furniture; equipment; start-up costs for a new courthouse that are not covered by the State Court Facilities Construction Fund; IT asset replacement or upgrades; or facility renovations not covered by the State Court Facilities Construction Fund. In addition, funds needed to cover anticipated employee benefit payments, such as payment of accrued vacation or sick leave that an employee decides to use during the fiscal year, would be reported here.
- Unassigned Fund Balance. This is the residual classification for the General Fund and represents the General Fund balance that has not been identified as nonspendable, restricted, committed, or assigned for a specific purpose.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> The General Fund is the only fund that can have a positive unassigned fund balance. Other governmental funds can have deficit unassigned fund balances if caused by nonspendable, restricted, or committed fund balances.

Report title: Report of Trial Court Revenue, Expenditure, and Fund Balance Constraints for Fiscal Year 2015–2016

Statutory citation: Government Code sections 68502.5(b) and 77202.5(b)

Date of report: February 10, 2017

The Judicial Council has submitted a report to the Legislature in accordance with Government Code sections 68502.5(b) and 77202.5(b).

The following summary of the report is provided per the requirements of Government Code section 9795.

This Judicial Council report presents trial court financial information for fiscal year (FY) 2015–2016, including: revenues; expenditures at the program, component, and object levels; and fund balance constraints. All data is reported for each trial court and includes totals for all trial courts as well.

Information was compiled from data reported by the trial courts for all fund sources in the FY 2015–2016 fourth quarter Quarterly Financial Statements. For FY 2015–2016, the trial courts reported revenues of $2.484 billion, expenditures of $2.468 billion, and fund balances totaling $212.9 million, of which, based on Governmental Accounting Standards
Board Statement No. 54 classifications, $12.2 million was nonspendable, $70.8 million was restricted, $110.8 million was committed, $16.0 million was assigned, and $3.0 million was unassigned.

The full report is available at www.courts.ca.gov/7466.htm.

Improving California's Criminal Fine and Fee System

Executive Summary

California's Criminal Fine and Fee System. Upon conviction of a criminal offense (including traffic violations), individuals are typically required by the court to pay various fines and fees as part of their punishment. Collection programs—operated by both courts and counties—collect payments from individuals and then distribute them to numerous funds to support various state and local government programs and services. Distribution occurs in accordance to a very complex process dictated by state law.

Key Problems With Existing Fine and Fee System. Based on our analysis of the state's existing fine and fee system, we identified four major problems with the system.

- Difficult for Legislature to Control Use of Fine and Fee Revenues. The existing system distributes fine and fee revenue based on various statutory formulas, making it difficult for the Legislature to control how such revenue is used. This is because the current formula-based system limits the information available to guide legislative decisions, makes it difficult for the Legislature to reprioritize the use of revenue, and allows administering entities to maintain significant control over the use of funds.
- Revenue Distributions Generally Not Based on Need. The existing system distributes revenue in a manner that is generally not based on program need—thereby resulting in programs receiving more or less funding than needed.
- Difficult to Distribute Revenue Accurately. The complexity of the existing system makes it difficult for collection programs to accurately distribute fine and fee revenue.
- Lack of Complete and Accurate Data on Collections and Distributions. A lack of complete and accurate data on fine and fee collections and distributions makes it difficult for the Legislature to conduct fiscal oversight.

LAO Recommendations. To address the above problems, we make recommendations to improve the state's fine and fee system. First, we recommend that the Legislature reevaluate the overall structure of the fine and fee system to ensure the system is consistent with its goals. As part of this process, the Legislature will want to determine the specific goals of the system, whether ability to pay should be incorporated into the system, what should be the consequences for failing to pay, and whether fines and fees should be regularly adjusted. Second, we recommend increasing legislative control over the use of criminal fine and fee revenue to ensure that its uses are in line with legislative priorities by (1) requiring that most criminal fine and fee revenue be deposited in the state General Fund, (2) consolidating most fines and fees into a single, statewide charge, (3) evaluating the existing programs supported by fine and fee revenues, and (4) mitigating the impacts of potential changes to the fine and fee system on local governments.

Introduction

Individuals convicted of criminal offenses, including traffic violations, are often required to pay a number of fines and fees as part of their punishment. The revenue from these payments are deposited in specific funds to support various state and local government programs and services. In recent years, a number of these funds have faced operational shortfalls due to a decline in fine and fee revenue. At the same time, the Legislature has expressed concern with the level of the state's fines and fees and their impact on low-income individuals. In order to help address both of these issues, the Legislature recently took steps to (1) temporarily redirect monies to specific state funds experiencing shortfalls in fine and fee revenue and (2) provide onetime relief to individuals who were unable to pay the fines and fees for certain traffic violations. While these actions address some of the concerns and challenges with the state's existing fine and fee system on a temporary basis, there are opportunities for the Legislature to make ongoing improvements.

In this report, we: (1) provide background information on California's criminal fine and fee system, including how fines and fees are calculated and distributed; (2) identify problems with the existing system; and (3) make recommendations to improve the system. In preparing this report, we spoke with Judicial Council staff, trial court administrators and judges, and county staff throughout the state in order to gain an in-depth understanding of how fines and fees are calculated, distributed, and used. We also analyzed various reports and data compiled by the judicial branch and the State Controller's Office. Finally, we talked to officials from other states regarding their fine and fee systems.

California's Criminal Fine and Fee System

What Are Criminal Fines and Fees?

During court proceedings, trial courts typically levy fines and fees upon individuals convicted of criminal offenses (including traffic violations). As we discuss below, the total amount owed by an individual consists of a base fine, as well as various additional charges (such as other fines, fees, forfeitures, penalty surcharges, assessments, and restitution orders). Collectively, these various fines and fees are often referred to as court-ordered debt, which is the focus of this report. (Parking violations are not considered court-ordered debt as state trial courts do not administer such violations.)

How Are Criminal Fine and Fee Levels Set?

Trial Courts Determine Total Amount Owed. Trial courts are responsible for determining the total amount of fines and fees owed by individuals upon their conviction for a criminal offense. This calculation begins with a base fine that is set in state law for each criminal offense. For example, as shown in Figure 1, the base fine for the infraction of a stop sign violation is $35, while the base fine for the misdemeanor of driving under the influence (DUI) of alcohol or drugs is $390. State law then requires the court to add certain charges to the base fine, which can significantly increase the total amount owed. Some of these additional charges are calculated using the base fine. For example, the state penalty assessment consists of adding $10 for every $10 portion of the base fine. Others are flat charges, such as the court operations assessment of $40 per conviction. On a limited basis, state law also authorizes counties and courts to levy additional charges depending on the specific violation and other factors. Some of these additional charges require the county board of supervisors to approve a resolution before it may be imposed. Finally, statute gives judges some discretion to reduce the total amount owed by waiving or reducing certain charges. As shown in the figure, the total payment owed by an individual can be many times greater than the base fine.

Fine and Fee Levels Set to Serve Multiple Purposes. The state has enacted various fines and fees for a variety of purposes. Some, such as the base fine and the restitution fine, are generally tied to the seriousness of the crime. Others were enacted to generate revenue to fund specific activities. For example, two DNA penalty assessments support the Department of Justice's DNA Laboratory and other local DNA-related activities. Finally, some fines and fees were enacted to help offset state or local costs for providing particular services to individuals paying the specific charge. For example, the night court fee is used to offset facility costs for trial courts that choose to conduct night or weekend sessions for traffic offenses. The fee may not be charged if an sessions are not conducted. Over the past decade, the number and size of charges added to the base fine has increased significantly—resulting in increases in the total amount owed by individuals convicted of criminal offenses. For example, as shown in Figure 2, the total fine and fee level for a stop sign violation has increased significantly since 2005. (As discussed in the nearby box, fine and fee levels in California for criminal violations generally appear to be high relative to other states.)

Certain Criminal Fines and Fees Appear Higher Than Certain Other States

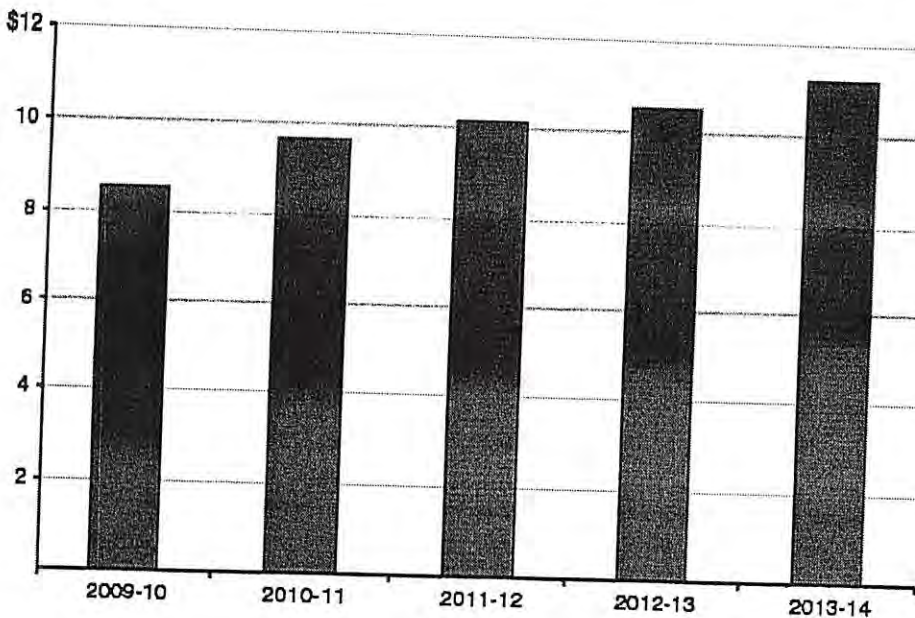

Currently, comprehensive information is not available on the criminal fine and fee levels of other states. However, in order to compare California's fine and fee levels to the rest of the nation, we surveyed other states. Specifically, we surveyed one large jurisdiction in each of 33 states (including many states similar to California) for the fines and fees associated with the two offenses: a stop sign violation and speeding at 20 miles per hour over the limit. We found that California's fines and fees associated with these common traffic offenses are relatively high. For example, the total fines and fees for a stop sign violation in California is $238, which was higher than 28 of the surveyed states (about 85 percent). The total in other surveyed states ranged from $58 to $277, and averaged $157. The total fines and fees for speeding at 20 miles per hour over the limit in California was $367, which was higher than all of states we surveyed. The total in other surveyed states ranged from $73 to $350, and averaged $203.

How Are Criminal Fines and Fees Collected?

Counties and Courts Involved in Collection Process. While trial courts are responsible for determining the amount of fines and fees owed by individuals, counties are statutorily responsible for collecting fine and fee payments. However, some collection duties are often delegated back to the trial courts. As a result, collection programs may be operated by both courts and counties. Individuals who plead guilty or are convicted of a criminal offense must either provide full payment immediately or set up installment payment plans with the collection program. If an offender does not pay on time, the amount owed becomes delinquent.

State law authorizes the collection program to use a variety of tools or sanctions (such as wage garnishments or the suspension of a driver's license) to motivate offenders to pay their debt. Additionally, in lieu of issuing an arrest warrant, state law authorizes collection programs to impose a civil assessment of up to $300 against any offender who fails to either make payment or appear in court without good cause. Finally, state law permits collection programs that meet specified criteria to recover most operating costs related to the collection of delinquent payments prior to distribution to various state and local funds. (Please see our November 2014 report, Restructuring the Court-Ordered Debt Collection Process, for more detailed information regarding the debt collection process.) Since 2009–10, programs reported collecting a total of roughly $1.8 billion in fine and fee revenue annually. However, this amount may be understated due to incomplete reporting by collection programs.

Amount of Outstanding Debt Increasing. Every year, the courts estimate the total outstanding balance of debt owed by individuals. This balance may decrease when individuals make payments or debt is resolved in an alternative manner, such as when a portion of a debt is dismissed because the individual performs community service in lieu of payment. However, this amount generally grows each year as some amount of newly imposed court-ordered debt goes unpaid and is added to the amount of unresolved debt accumulated from prior years. As shown in Figure 3, an estimated $11.2 billion in criminal fines and fees remained outstanding at the end of 2013–14. We would note, however, that a large portion of this balance may not be collectable as the costs of collection could outweigh the amount that would actually be collected.

Figure 3*Outstanding Balance of Unresolved Fines and Fees Continues to Grow(In Billions)How Are Criminal Fines and Fees Distributed?

As shown in Figure 4, over 50 state funds—in addition to many local funds throughout the state—are eligible to receive fine and fee revenue. However, some of these funds receive very little revenue, such as those that only receive revenue from fines and fees for specific offenses that occur infrequently. For example, the state Voter Intimidation Restitution Fund only receives revenue when an individual is convicted of voter intimidation. In order to comply with the numerous state laws dictating which funds receive fine and fee revenue, collection programs must carefully track, distribute, and record the revenue they collect. Programs submit this information, along with the revenue, to the county for (1) distribution to county funds and (2) transfer to the State Controller's Office (SCO) for distribution to state funds.

State law dictates a very complex process for the distribution of fine and fee revenue. As we discuss below, state law specifies how individual fine and fee payments are to be distributed to state and local funds, including additional requirements for when payments are not made in full (such as under an installment plan). Currently, state law contains at least 215 distinct code sections related to these processes.

Distribution Among State and Local Funds. State law (and county board of supervisor resolutions for certain local charges) specifies how payments made to resolve individual fines and fees are distributed among state and local funds. First, state law includes formulas for distributions of certain fines and fees. For example, state penalty assessments are deposited into the State Penalty Fund (SPF) for subsequent distribution to nine other state funds (such as the Victim-Witness Assistance Fund). Statute also requires that a portion of certain fines and fees be allocated to specific purposes (such as to support cost-recovery and the Trial Court Improvement and Modernization Fund) prior to distributing revenue to various state and local funds. State state law authorizes local governments to determine how certain fines or fees are to be distributed among various local funds. For example, individual counties choose how payments made to address the county penalty assessment are deposited among several local funds. Finally, state law includes some distributions that vary by criminal offense. Figure 5 provides an example of the distribution of fines and fees for a stop sign violation and DUI violation. As shown in the figure, payments to satisfy the base fine for a stop sign violation are deposited in the Trial Court Improvement and Modernization Fund, as well as in the county and/or city General Fund, depending on where the offense occurs and which law enforcement entity cited the offense. In contrast, payments to satisfy the base fine of a DUI violation are deposited into three additional funds and must be distributed in a particular order under state law. As shown in the figure, these various distribution requirements result in a complex series of deposits into numerous state and local funds.

Distribution of Debt Not Paid in Full. Further complicating the distribution of fine and fee revenue, state law specifies the order in which payments that are less than the full amount owed are used to satisfy the fines and fees individuals are charged. For example, state law requires that installment payments be credited in a particular order. As shown in Figure 6, all fines and fees fall within one of five distribution categories. The fines and fees in each category must be fully satisfied before payments may be credited to the next category. This means that state and local funds in the lower distribution priorities fail to receive full allocations or receive delayed allocations if payments are not made in full or are delinquent. For partial payments that are not part of an installment payment plan, collection programs can either prorate the payments across (1) all charges equally or (2) any remaining charges after fulfilling those that are set amounts (such as the $40 per conviction court operations assessment).

Who Benefits From Criminal Fine and Fee Revenues?

Below, we discuss our best estimate of the total amount of revenue distributed to state and local governments and how it is divided between them. As we discuss later in this report, due to various data limitations, actual revenue amounts could be higher or lower than our estimates.

Total Revenue Distributed to State and Local Governments Declining. According to available data compiled by the SCO and the judicial branch, the total amount of fine and fee revenue distributed to state and local governments annually has declined since 2010–11. Specifically, the amount has declined by approximately $200 million—from nearly $2.2 billion in 2010–11 to nearly $2 billion in 2013–14. (As we discuss in more detail later in this report, this amount does not reconcile with the above $1.8 billion that collections programs report collecting in fine and fee revenue annually.) Most state and local funds receiving fine and fee revenue have also experienced a decline in the amount distributed to them. For example, the SPF received nearly $30 million less in 2013–14 than in 2010–11—about a 25 percent decline in revenue. The cause of such declines is unknown but could be due to a variety of factors—including the number of citations issued by law enforcement, individuals' willingness to make payments, and the amount collected by collection programs. For example, the total number of criminal infraction and misdemeanor filings steadily declined by nearly 1.6 million total filings since 2010–11—a decline of about 22 percent. (A more detailed breakdown of deposits into specific state and local funds can be found in the appendix.)

Half of Revenue Distributed to State. The state received a little over $1 billion of the total amount of fine and fee revenue distributed in 2013–14. As shown in Figure 7, this represents roughly half of all distributed revenue. Of this amount, a little less than two-thirds went to support trial court operations and construction. The remainder supported various other state programs such as victim–witness assistance, peace officer training, and the state's DNA laboratory. Of the amount allocated to trial courts, roughly half funded statewide trial court construction, and the other half supported trial court operations.

Collection Programs Receive Share of Revenue. Collection programs received $114 million (or 6 percent) of fine and revenue distributed in 2013–14 for their operational costs related to the collection of delinquent payments. These funds are split between state trial courts and counties depending on which entity incurred the costs.

Remaining Revenue Distributed to Local Governments. We estimate that local governments received $820 million (or 42 percent) of the total amount of fine and fee revenue distributed in 2013–14. Of this amount, $657 million (or 80 percent) went to the counties. We would note, however, that counties often use their share of fine and fee revenue to meet their maintenance–of–effort (MOE) obligations to the state. These MOE obligations—or requirements for counties to continue to provide some financial support for trial courts—were established in 1997 when the Legislature shifted primary responsibility for trial court funding from the counties to the state. To date, annual county MOE obligations to the state for trial court operations total about $660 million.

Key Problems with Existing Fine and Fee System

Based on our analysis of California's existing fine and fee system, we identified four major problems with the system. Specifically, we find that the existing system (1) makes it difficult for the Legislature to control how fine and fee revenue is used, (2) distributes revenue in a manner that is generally not based on program need, (3) makes it difficult for collection programs to accurately distribute such revenue, and (4) lacks complete and accurate data on fine and fee collections and distributions. Figure 8 provides a summary of our findings, which we discuss in more detail below.

Problems With California's Fine and Fee System

- ✓ Difficult for Legislature to control use of fine and fee revenue.
- ✓ Revenue distributions generally not based on need.
- ✓ Difficult to distribute revenue accurately.
- ✓ Lack of complete and accurate data on collections and distributions.

Difficult for Legislature to Control Use of Fine and Fee Revenue

As discussed earlier, the state's existing fine and fee system includes a complex distribution method that disburses monies to funds based on various statutory formulas. These formulas ensure certain programs receive funding annually, which often makes it difficult for the Legislature to control the use of fine and fee revenue. This is because the statutory distribution formulas often have the following effects:

- Limited Information to Guide Legislative Decisions. Because the current statutory formulas effectively guarantee certain programs funding, these programs are generally not required to regularly provide the Legislature with information on program expenditures and outcomes. This makes it difficult for the Legislature to regularly evaluate how effectively these programs are using the funds they are provided. Although some programmatic information is typically provided when programs require additional funding (such as due to insufficient revenue), the Legislature is often informed of these challenges late in the process when there are few viable options that would not cause major impacts to program operations.
- Difficult for Legislature to Reprioritize Use of Revenue. Because the existing distribution formulas effectively lock in the uses of fine and fee revenue on an ongoing basis, it is difficult for the Legislature to reprioritize the use of these funds based on changing needs and priorities (such as increasing the amount of revenue allocated to some programs or using these funds to support alternative programs that it deems to be of higher priority). This limits the Legislature's ability to ensure that such funds are being used in a manner that is consistent with its priorities.
- Administering Entities Maintain Significant Control Over Use of Funds. The current formula-driven system also gives certain state and local entities significant discretion in how they use fine and fee revenue. For example, statute authorizes the judicial branch to determine the specific statewide projects funded by the Trial Court Improvement and Modernization Fund based on broad guidance outlined in statute. The Legislature only receives an annual report on expenditures once the fiscal year is complete. In other cases, entities have complete discretion over the use of certain funds. For example, cities have complete control on how they use the share of their fine and fee revenue that is deposited into their General Funds and are not required to report to the Legislature on how such monies are used. As a result, the Legislature maintains limited control over a significant portion of fine and fee revenues.

Revenue Distributions Generally Not Based on Need

By locking in funding formulas in statute, the existing system preserves the level of funding deemed appropriate when the formulas were established. On the one hand, this can result in some programs receiving more funding than necessary to fulfill their statutory requirements. For example, in some years, the Restitution Fund, the primary funding source for the Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board, received more fine and fee revenue than the board needed to make payments to eligible crime victims. This resulted in the Restitution Fund having an annual balance of over $100 million in unused funds from 2005–06 through 2007–08.

On the other hand, the distribution formulas can result in some programs receiving insufficient funding to fulfill their statutory requirements. For example, over the past decade, the existing formula allocating a specific percentage of SPF fine and fee revenue to the Peace Officers' Training Fund—which supports the Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST)—has resulted in POST not having sufficient funding to maintain the level of training services previously provided, particularly when there has been a change in the amount of revenue collected. Given this shortfall, the Legislature chose to redirect $14 million annually during this time period from another SPF fund to support POST, as well as provide a one-time $3.2 million General Fund appropriation in 2014–15. The Legislature also approved an 18-month traffic amnesty program as part of the 2015–16 budget and directed that a portion of the additional revenues resulting from the program support POST in the short run. We would note that there are a number of other funds supported by fine and fee revenue that are also nearing or currently experiencing operational shortfalls.

Difficult to Distribute Revenue Accurately

The numerous statutory requirements governing the distribution of fine and fee revenue can also make it difficult for individual courts and counties to track, distribute, and report such revenue accurately and consistently. This is because every charge has its own distribution requirement which can vary based on other factors (such as where the offense occurred). This challenge is further complicated by additional statutory requirements related to how partial and installment payments are to be credited against various charges. This can result in payments for the same type of violation being distributed in different ways. Although some courts and counties have automated computer programs to assist them with this task, these automated programs can sometimes be difficult to correctly program. Other courts and counties do not have such programs and thus still make these calculations manually.

While courts and counties can be fined by the state for certain errors in their distribution of fine and fee revenue, unintentional errors still occur. Because of the numerous and overlapping distribution requirements specified in statute, a distribution error can sometimes impact over 20 state and local funds. This is particularly the case where certain funds receive funding after a portion of the revenue is allocated to a different fund. Since errors may not be corrected for several years, it can result in the misallocation of significant sums of money. Distribution errors are regularly found by the SCO, which is authorized to review whether criminal fines and fees have been deposited accurately and in a timely manner. In reviews conducted from 2006 through 2014, the SCO identified $63 million in errors made between 1998–99 and 2012–13. (We would note that the number of reviews conducted—and the fiscal years examined—in a given year varies by county and court.) Of this amount, about $48 million was related to instances where counties did not remit sufficient revenue to the state. We note that the total value of errors made between 1998–99 and 2012–13 is likely higher than $63 million because the SCO audits we examined did not evaluate all distributions occurring over this time period. While the SCO has found that counties and courts generally resolve the cause of most distribution errors identified in its reviews, it frequently finds new errors in subsequent reviews.

Lack of Complete and Accurate Data on Collections and Distributions

Although SCO and the judicial branch both collect information on the collection and distribution of fines and fees, each of the various records they maintain omit pieces of data. This is primarily because such data is often not required to be collected. For example, while counties transmit fine and fee revenue and information on how the revenue should be distributed among state funds to SCO, the SCO does not receive—and thus does not record—the amount kept by counties or cities. Additionally, the judicial branch is only required by state law to report on the amount of delinquent payments collected by collection programs and thus does not always record and report information on non-delinquent payments. Although the judicial branch informally tracks some distribution data, it is not required to do so under state law. In view of the above, the state currently lacks complete data on both the collection and distribution of fine and fee revenue.

Compounding the problem regarding the la. collections and distributions data, it appears that there are inconsistencies (1) between similar pieces of data collected by the SCO and the judicial branch and (2) in how collection programs report data. For example, as shown in Figure 9, SCO and judicial branch reports on collections and distributions are inconsistent, as they report a greater amount being distributed than collected. From our attempts to reconcile the data, it appears that programs may differ in what charges and distributions they classify as criminal fines and fees as well as how they report such information—impacting both the collections and distributions data. In addition, it appears that part of the difference is also attributable to data that is missing from collections reports. Without complete, consistent, and accurate data, it is difficult for the Legislature to conduct fiscal oversight to ensure that funds are being allocated accurately and used in accordance with its priorities and state law. It also makes it difficult for the Legislature to determine the impacts of enacted or proposed changes to fines and fees, which further limits the ability of the Legislature to effectively oversee the current system and programs supported by it.

LAO Recommendations

In this report, we reviewed California's existing fine and fee system and identified several problems. To address these problems, we provide several recommendations to overhaul and improve the fine and fee system. First, we recommend reevaluating the overall structure of the fine and fee system to ensure the system meets legislative goals. Second, we recommend increasing legislative control over the use of criminal fine and fee revenue to ensure that its uses are in line with legislative priorities. Figure 10 provides a summary of our recommendations, which are discussed in greater detail below.

Summary of LAO Recommendations

- ✓ Reevaluate structure of criminal fine and fee system.
- ✓ Increase legislative control of criminal fine and fee expenditures.
  - Deposit most criminal fine and fee revenue in the General Fund.
  - Consolidate most fines and fees.
  - Evaluate existing programs supported by criminal fine and fee revenues.
  - Mitigate impacts on local government.

Reevaluate Structure of Criminal Fine and Fee System

As discussed earlier, the state's current fine and fee system has evolved from statutes passed over the course of numerous years. In order to ensure that the system effectively meets current legislative goals and priorities, we recommend that the Legislature reevaluate the overall structure of the system. As part of this evaluation, we recommend the Legislature consider the following key questions in its deliberations to guide any subsequent changes to the state's fine and fee system.

What Should Be the Goals of the Criminal Fine and Fee System? A fine and fee system can serve various purposes:

- Deterrence. Fines and fees are used to deter criminal activity in several ways. First, they can be set to ensure that the fines and fees for committing an illegal act are greater than the benefit that individuals can obtain from the act—making it less likely that individuals commit the illegal activity. Deterrence can also be achieved by setting fines and fees high enough to result in a hardship that individuals will seek to avoid. Lastly, the effective enforcement of law and collection of fines and fees could deter criminal activity. This is because the more likely it is that offenders are caught and required to pay, the less likely it is that they would violate the law in the future.
- Proportional Punishment. Fines and fees can be used to provide a punishment that is proportional to the seriousness of a crime committed by an offender. This also conveys the seriousness of the offense. To achieve proportional punishment, fines and fees must be large enough to represent a reasonable hardship for offenders to ensure that they constitute a punishment. While the determination of whether the fines and fees for a particular offense are proportional and reasonable is subjective, it can be guided by information on how the requirement to pay affects offenders.
- Mitigating Effects of Crime. Another goal could be to generate sufficient revenue to help mitigate the negative effects of crime. For example, the state's current system often requires offenders to compensate their victims for certain losses through restitution orders. The state's system could be modified to offset other costs as well. For example, revenue could be used to offset costs imposed on the state and local governments by criminal activity, such as by providing funds for the enforcement of specific laws. To achieve this goal, it is necessary to collect information on the costs created by a criminal act and ensure that some portion of each offender's payment is used to offset those costs.

In general, the above goals are not mutually exclusive—meaning a fine and fee system can seek to achieve more than one of the goals. For example, fines and fees could be set sufficiently high to deter criminal activity with the resulting revenue used to offset the negative effects of criminal activity. However, in certain circumstances, some of the goals cannot be fully accomplished together. For example, requiring a payment that is high enough to generate sufficient revenue to fully offset all negative effects of a crime may result in a punishment that the Legislature views as disproportionate. Accordingly, the Legislature may need to determine which of its goals it values most when assessing the state's fine and fee system.

Should Ability to Pay Be Incorporated? The Legislature may also want to consider whether an individual's ability to pay should be incorporated into its fine and fee system. California has historically incorporated ability to pay by authorizing judges to waive or reduce certain fines and fees under certain circumstances. To the extent the Legislature is interested in incorporating ability to pay, there are various ways it can do so. We would note, however, that some of these options would entail one-time or ongoing administrative costs.

- Calculate Fines Based on Ability to Pay. One option is to calculate fines and fees in ways that reflect an individual's ability to pay. For example, the Legislature could consider a day fine system in which the total amount owed is calculated based on an offender's daily income. Under such a system, a low-income earning offender and a high-income earning offender would pay the same percentage of their income as punishment for their offense. However, the total amount each pays would differ substantially. Alternatively, the total amount owed for each offense can have a statutory maximum and be adjusted downward based on an offender's income, either automatically or through judicial discretion. This is similar to the state's current system in which judges are given discretion to waive certain fines and fees.
- Implement Alternative Methods for Addressing Debt. Another option is offering alternative methods for individuals to address their debt. For example, the Legislature could require collection programs to adjust their installment payment plans to make payment easier for low-income individuals. Currently, programs vary in how they determine appropriate installment payment amounts. The Legislature could set guidelines for how programs should calculate installment payments, such as by specifying how to calculate discretionary income (such as which household expenses could be deducted) in establishing installment payments or by setting limits on how much of an individual's income may be taken to address fine and fee obligations in a given month. The Legislature could also expand the use of alternative methods to satisfy fines and fees, such as by allowing offenders to completely address their debt through community service (which is currently not allowed).

What Should Be the Consequences for Failing to Pay? The Legislature will want to consider what consequences individuals should face when they fail to pay their fines and fees. Statute currently authorizes the use of certain consequences, including civil sanctions for failures to pay. The Legislature will want to consider whether to authorize additional sanctions and/or continue or modify existing sanctions (such as wage garnishments, tax liens, or holds on drivers' licenses). For example, under current law, collection programs can only direct the Department of Motor Vehicles to suspend the driver's license of an offender who fails to pay once. Programs tend to leave these suspensions in place until an individual completes payment, as the program is unable to resuspend the license if the individual stops making payments on the debt in the future. This can significantly increase the amount of time that individuals' licenses are suspended. Alternatively, the Legislature could authorize programs to impose a suspension more than once, in order to allow programs to lift a suspension as soon as a new payment agreement is reached. (This is already permitted in cases where individuals have their licenses suspended for failing to appear in court.) The Legislature could also take action to help prevent offenders from becoming delinquent. For example, the Legislature could authorize programs to offer an incentive (such as a discount) if offenders pay their debt in full within a certain period of time.

Should Fines and Fees Be Adjusted? Once the Legislature sets the appropriate fine level for criminal offenses, the Legislature will want to decide whether and how such fines are adjusted in the future. Under current law, fines and fees are set in statute and are only changed through the enactment of new statute. Such changes have generally involved increasing existing charges or adding new ones. The Legislature could require that the state regularly adjust fine and fee levels in the future to ensure that they are set at an appropriate level to accomplish its goals for the system. For example, the Legislature could choose to reevaluate levels every five or ten years. Alternatively, the Legislature could require the automatic adjustment of fines and fees, such as based on a statewide economic indicator. This could raise or lower fine levels to conform to movements in the state's economy—including lowering fines when the state enters a recession.

Increase Legislative Control of Criminal Fine and Fee Expenditures

Deposit Most Criminal Fine and Fee Revenue in the General Fund. We recommend that the Legislature require that nearly all fine and fee revenue (including such revenue currently distributed to local government) be deposited into the state General Fund for subsequent appropriation by the Legislature in the annual state budget. (We would note that this action would not impact the Proposition 98 guarantee because fines and fees are not tax revenues.) Depositing all fine and fee revenue in the General Fund would allow the Legislature to ensure that annual funding for state and local programs is based on workload and its priorities, rather than on the amount of revenue generated by the fine and fee system. Moreover, an annual review of programmatic funding levels would facilitate periodic reviews of programs to help ensure that they are operating effectively and efficiently. In addition, any fluctuations in the collection of fine and fee revenue would no longer disproportionately impact programs supported by fines and fees. Instead, fluctuations in revenue would be addressed at a statewide level across other state programs—ensuring that adjustments in funding levels were based on statewide legislative priorities.

Based on our assessment of existing criminal fines and fees, we recommend excluding two types of fines and fees from being deposited to the General Fund—fish and game assessments and victim restitution orders. This is primarily due to certain legal restrictions regarding these particular fines and fees. For example, the State Constitution requires that money collected under any state law related to the protection or propagation of fish and game be used for related activities. Victim restitution orders for damages should also continue to be paid directly to victims as these are charges set by the court to compensate individual victims for losses they incurred.

In addition, we note that the Legislature would need to account for certain legal requirements and ongoing commitments previously made from fine and fee revenue. First, Proposition 69 (2004) established a DNA assessment of $1 for every $10 portion of the base fine for criminal offenses. The Legislature would want to ensure that the programs supported by this assessment continue to receive at least the same level of funding they would have under the current system, in order to meet the requirements of Proposition 69. Second, the state and local governments have committed some of their fine and fee revenue to support long-term, contractual expenditures. For example, the State Trial Court Construction Fund and the local Criminal Justice Facilities Construction Funds commit monies for decades to make debt service payments to repay bonds sold to finance construction. The Legislature would need to ensure that revenue is available to meet such obligations in order to avoid litigation or punitive actions.

Depositing nearly all fine and fee revenue into the General Fund could also increase public confidence in the system. Currently, some members of the public distrust the existing system as they believe that various state and local entities, such as law enforcement and trial courts, directly benefit from each citation that is issued. Our recommendation could minimize this perception as the Legislature would be responsible for allocating all of the revenue based on its General Fund priorities.

Consolidate Most Fines and Fees. We also recommend the Legislature consolidate most fines and fees into a single, statewide charge and eliminate the ability of trial courts and local governments to charge additional fines and fees. (Based on our above recommendation, fish and game assessments, as well as victim restitution orders, would continue to be imposed separately.) Such consolidation would eliminate the need for the existing complex distribution model and make it easier for counties and courts to track such revenue—thereby improving the accuracy and completeness of collection data.

Simplifying the calculation of fines and fees could also generate greater public confidence in the system. Currently, individuals are often confused about how the total amount they must pay can increase so significantly from the initial base fine or why it can vary by county. This often results in individuals viewing the existing fine and fee system as unfair and overly punitive, which can sometimes result in a reluctance to pay. Simplifying the calculation of fines and fees can increase transparency by providing offenders with a clearer idea of their punishment.

Evaluate Existing Programs Supported by Criminal Fine and Fee Revenues. If the Legislature adopted our recommendation to deposit fine and fee revenue to the General Fund, it would need to determine the appropriate level of funding (if any) for the various programs currently supported by fine and fee revenue. In making these funding decisions, the Legislature might first want to consider whether an individual program should be a state responsibility, as well as how it compares to other statewide budgetary priorities.

To assist in its budget deliberations, the Legislature would need to acquire information on how fine and fee revenues are currently being used, such as by requiring state and local programs to submit reports on current expenditures or conducting hearings with various stakeholders. In addition, the Legislature would need to define its expectations on program service levels and determine the funding needed to meet those expectations. For example, the Legislature could direct programs to develop workload or staffing ratios to establish program funding needs. The Legislature could use this information to evaluate the need and cost-effectiveness of each program relative to all other programs currently supported by the General Fund. This would help ensure that programs that the Legislature prioritizes most receive an appropriate amount of funding, rather than whatever amount happens to be generated by fines and fees. However, we recognize that the above process would take time to complete, as most programs currently have limited data on program outcomes and expenditures. Accordingly, the Legislature could choose to gradually implement changes to the level of funding provided to various state and local programs as it receives such information.

Mitigate Impacts on Local Government. As discussed previously, local governments currently receive about 40 percent of criminal fine and fee revenue—about $820 million in 2013–14—for a variety of purposes. Under our recommended approach, such fine and fee revenue would instead be deposited in the state General Fund. As part of any restructuring of fine and fee revenues, we recommend that the Legislature mitigate the fiscal impact this would have on local governments. For example, one promising mechanism available to the Legislature for mitigating the impact on many counties is through reducing or eliminating the MOEs they are currently required to pay to the state related to trial court operations. As discussed previously, counties currently remit about $660 million annually to the state to meet these obligations. In 2013–14, counties received $657 million in fine and fee revenue—nearly the same amount owed to the state. We note that since the MOEs were first established in 1977–98, the state has taken actions to change MOE obligations for trial court operations—reducing the required payments from nearly $1.2 billion to about $660 million (a decrease of nearly 45 percent). This reduction included eliminating a portion of the MOE obligation entirely for 38 counties.

The Legislature could also consider taking other mitigating actions for counties and cities. For example, given that some fine and fee revenue distributed to local government has been used to meet ongoing obligations (such as facility debt service), the Legislature could gradually implement any changes in funding provided to local governments. This would give local governments time to fully address any ongoing obligations that are currently being paid for with fine and fee revenue. It would also provide local governments time to restructure or eliminate programs currently supported by fine and fee revenue.

Implementing Changes to the Fine and Fee System

As the Legislature considers making changes to the fine and fee system, it may also want to consider making comprehensive changes across the entire system—balancing changes to fine and fee levels, enforcement, collection, and distribution. Depending on the Legislature's goal for the state's fine and fee system, the Legislature may ultimately make changes—such as lowering fine and fee levels—that could result in a decline in revenue to state and local programs. To mitigate such revenue losses, the Legislature could make improvements to the collection process—such as those contained in our November 2014 report—in order to help increase the amount of fine and fee revenue ultimately collected. (Please see the nearby box for a summary of the findings and recommendations made in our November 2014 report on restructuring the court-ordered debt collection process.) This would increase the amount available for distribution, helping to mitigate any potential loss of fine and fee revenue. Additionally, after evaluating programs currently supported by fine and fee revenue, the Legislature could decide that certain programs currently receiving funding are not legislative priorities or make changes to programs so that they operate more cost-effectively. Redirecting the resulting funds freed up by such changes could also help mitigate the impact of a potential loss of fine and fee revenue on state and local programs.

Restructuring the Court-Ordered Debt Collection Process

Our November 2014 report, Restructuring the Court-Ordered Debt Collection Process, identified a number of weaknesses with the current court-ordered debt collection process. First, there is a lack of clear fiscal incentives for collection programs to collect debt in a cost-effective manner or to maximize the total amount of debt they collect. For example, there is almost no direct relationship between a program's collection effort and the revenue that accrues to it. Second, we found that it is difficult to comprehensively evaluate and compare the performance of existing collection programs due to a lack of complete, consistent, and accurate reporting on how programs collect debt. Finally, we found that the current statutory division of responsibilities between counties and courts can undermine the oversight and modification of collection programs—thereby making it difficult to make improvements.

In view of these weaknesses, we recommended a series of improvements to the collection process. First, we recommend that the Legislature shift statutory responsibility for debt collection to the trial courts and pilot a new collections incentive model. This restructured process would: (1) consolidate responsibility with the entity best suited for managing collections, (2) provide courts with greater flexibility in how and when they collect debt, and (3) reward courts for collecting cost-effectively or increasing the total amount collected. Second, we recommend improving data collection and measurements of performance to enable a comprehensive evaluation of court-ordered debt collections. In combination, we believe these recommendations would improve the efficiency of debt collection and increase the total amount of debt revenue collected and distributed to state and local funds. We note that these recommendations related to the collection process complement the recommended changes in this report regarding the overall criminal fine and fee system.

FACT SHEET

January 2015

Senate Bill 1407-Impacts of Delay Judicial Branch Court Construction Program

Senate Bill 1407 (Stats. 2008, ch. 311), authorized up to $5 billion in bonds to build or renovate courthouses in 32 counties. These projects are necessary to replace or improve courthouses with the most severe problems—safety and security, structural deterioration, and overcrowding—for the protection of the public, court staff, and judicial officers, and to improve access to justice in California. As noted in Chief Justice Tani Cantil-Sakauye's Access 3D vision, physical access to justice requires safe, secure, accessible courthouses, open where and when the public needs them.

SB 1407 projects are funded by court users from increased fees, penalties, and assessments that generate approximately $270 million in annual revenues. However, due to the state's budget problems that began in 2009, court construction funds were diverted for several years to other needs within the state. These diversions required 11 projects to be indefinitely delayed.

Court Construction Funds Diverted

Since 2009, $1.8 billion in court construction funds<sup>1</sup> have been used to address the state's budget shortfall, including:

- Loans to the General Fund totaling $440 million, for which repayment has been delayed.
- A 2011 redirection of construction funds to the General Fund—not the courts—of $310 million, more than an entire year's worth of SB 1407 program revenues.
- A 2012 redirection of $240 million to court operations, backfilling a General Fund reduction, plus an ongoing $50 million redirection to begin in fiscal year 2013-14.

<sup>1</sup> The total of $1.8 billion in court construction funds diverted includes loans and redirections from the State Court Facilities Construction Fund and the

Senate Bill 1407-Impacts of Delay

- Over the same two years, the Judicial Council redirected a further $122 million of construction funds to judicial branch operations to soften the impact of General Fund reductions.
- Another $313 million intended for repairs and enhancements of court facilities was redirected to court operations to backfill for budget reductions to the courts, adding to a significant backlog of deferred maintenance in the judicial branch.
- In fiscal year 2013–2014, the Legislature redirected another $200 million of court construction funds to court operations to backfill a $200 million cut in General Fund, delayed repayment of a $90 million loan, and passed a new requirement that the New Long Beach Courthouse (an average of $60 million per year for the next 35 years) be paid for with court construction funds.

In response, the judicial branch had to delay the start of design or construction for many projects, cancel 2 courthouse projects, reduce budgets on all others, and indefinitely delay 11 projects.

All of these delays exacerbate the already significant problems associated with our aging and increasingly unsafe facilities. The delays are costly to the state in other ways as well. These delays will:

- Continue to expose the public, judicial officers, and court staff to hazardous conditions posed by structurally unsafe and unsound buildings;
- Prolong risks to the personal safety of the public, judicial officers, and court staff created by security deficiencies in the buildings—one of the primary drivers of need for new facilities;
- Impair the state's ability to create an estimated 104,000 direct and indirect new jobs, critically needed to put Californians back to work; and
- Cost the state hundreds of millions of dollars in lost buying power.

Physical Risks

California's courthouses suffer from years of neglect. Courthouses slated for replacement using the funds generated by SB 1407 are unsafe for the public and staff in many ways. They often lack adequate fire alarm systems, emergency evacuation systems, or other basic life safety systems. Many courthouses are seismically deficient and could be condemned, or worse, collapse in a moderate earthquake—a recent example of the risks posed by seismically deficient courthouses is the August 2014 magnitude 6.0 earthquake centered on Napa, which resulted in damage and closure of the historic Napa Superior Courthouse.

Roofs and windows leak, often causing severe water damage and, in some cases, indoor air-quality hazards. Aging and outdated systems—elevators, power, heating and ventilation, plumbing—fail frequently, hindering already backlogged court operations and affecting the public's timely access to justice.

Delaying replacement of and repairs to these buildings extends hazards that have long been identified as unacceptable. For example, in Los Angeles County, the Mental Health Courthouse (a former pickle factory) has no physical capacity to properly hear specialized cases, such as when patients attend court and must remain on a gurney. Judicial officers and court staff must conduct those proceedings in the sallyport area, which is open to public view and the delivery location for in-custody court participants.

Security Risks

The courthouse projects authorized by SB 1407 are the most immediately and critically needed in the state. Delaying construction prolongs many risks to public safety.

The antiquated physical layout of many courthouses creates security risks. These buildings need to be replaced or remodeled to eliminate or reduce the danger. A March 2009 incident in a Stockton courtroom, in which a defendant was shot to death after he attacked the judge with a handmade weapon, illustrates courtroom security challenges and highlights the need for modern, secure courthouses. In many courthouses, in-custody defendants move through the same hallways used by the public. This leads to intimidation of victims and witnesses and to contamination of jurors. Many courthouses lack space for attorneys to confer confidentially with clients. In the El Dorado Courthouse, for example, the public defender must confer with clients in the open holding cell or in the ladies' room. Inadequate security is also a major concern in courthouses that deal with gang-related criminal proceedings. These problems illustrate why the Judicial Council prioritized security in the planning for new and renovated courthouses.

Jobs Impact

At a time when the state's economy needs new jobs, the SB 1407 court construction program presents an unparalleled opportunity for economic stimulus. The $5 billion of construction originally authorized by SB 1407 was estimated to create over 100,000 jobs through direct employment and the related boost to local economies.

Many SB 1407 projects are in areas experiencing protracted high unemployment, such as Riverside, Imperial, and Stanislaus Counties. The impacts of delay will be felt throughout the construction industry and related trades, including both skilled and unskilled labor.

Escalating Costs

The construction market is starting to improve, and the sooner courthouse projects are designed and bid, the lower the cost to the state. Repeated delays likely will cause cautious private sector participants to increase their bids to mitigate the perceived increased risk of uncertainty in doing business with the State of California. In addition, this program has benefited from historically low interest rates, resulting in lower long-term costs of construction, which is typically financed rather than cash funded. Financing construction now—while the financing costs are relatively low—makes the most of the historic low borrowing rates.

Judicial Branch Oversight

The Judicial Council, under the leadership of the Chief Justice, has taken action to ensure that the program is well-managed:

- July 2011: The Chief Justice created the Court Facilities Working Group to oversee the judicial branch facilities program. The 21-member panel, chaired by Administrative Presiding Justice Brad R. Hill of the Court of Appeal, Fifth Appellate District in Fresno, includes judicial officers, court executives, and experts in public building programs.
- December 2011: The Judicial Council accepted the working group's first recommendations, which included canceling two courthouse projects and reducing costs on all others.
- Early 2012: The working group engaged an independent expert firm, Pegasus Global Holdings Inc., to audit the court construction program. All of the auditor's recommendations have been or are being implemented.
- April 2012: The Judicial Council adopted a cost-reduction plan for SB 1407 projects. This effort is ongoing, but already has identified more than $380 million in budget savings.
- October 2012: Because of funding sweeps and redirections, the Judicial Council indefinitely delayed seven courthouse projects.
- January 2013: The Judicial Council indefinitely delayed four projects, including the Sacramento Criminal Courthouse, as a result of the fiscal year 2013-2014 Budget Act, which requires payment of the annual service fee for the Governor George Deukmejian Courthouse in Long Beach from SB 1407 funds. The project was originally planned to be funded from the General Fund. It also broadened oversight of facility modifications and maintenance by another...

- February 2013: The Judicial Council delayed the start of design on 10 projects until fiscal year 2014-2015 due to a one-time $200 million cut from the General Fund.
- July 2014: The Judicial Council sponsored legislation (AB 1476) signed by the Governor to appropriate design funds for the new Sacramento Criminal Courthouse with SB 1407 funds

JUDICIAL BRANCH

JUDICIAL BRANCH

The Judicial Branch consists of the Supreme Court, courts of appeal, trial courts, and the Judicial Council. The trial courts are funded with a combination of funding from the General Fund, county maintenance-of-effort requirements, fines, fees, and other charges. Other levels of the Judicial Branch receive most of their funding from the General Fund. The Budget includes total funding of $3.8 billion ($1.8 billion General Fund and $2 billion other funds) in 2016-17 for the Judicial Branch, of which $2.8 billion is provided to support trial court operations. The Judicial Council is responsible for managing the resources of the Judicial Branch.

In 1998, California voters passed a constitutional amendment that provided for voluntary unification of the superior and municipal courts in each county into a single, countywide trial court system. By 2001, all 58 counties had voted to unify their municipal and superior court operations. This was the culmination of over a decade of preparation and work to improve court coordination and uniform access to justice. The Trial Court Funding Act of 1997 consolidated the costs of operating California's trial courts at the state level. The Act was based on the premise that state funding of court operations was necessary to provide more uniform standards and procedures, economies of scale, structural efficiency and access for the public. The Act created a state-funded trial court system and capped county contributions, having the state assume responsibility for growth in the costs of court operations. Prior to state funding, many small courts were in financial crisis and needed emergency state funding to keep their doors open.

JUDICIAL BRANCH

The Budget contains the following proposals to support efforts by the Judicial Council to improve court operations and increase access.

IMPROVING CALIFORNIA'S COURT SYSTEM

In planning for future court demands, the Chief Justice has created the Commission on the Future of California's Court System. The Commission expects to release initial recommendations in the summer of 2016 on initiatives to effectively and efficiently enhance access to justice. The Administration is committed to working with the Judiciary on improving access and modernizing court operations through innovative approaches.

To this end, the Administration is proposing to work with the Judicial Council to reallocate up to five vacant superior court judgeships and the staffing and security complements needed to support and implement the proposal. This will shift judgeships where the workload is highest without needing to increase the overall number of judges. The Administration also proposes to reduce the current allowable number of 10 peremptory challenges per side in misdemeanor trials to 6 challenges per side. Six challenges per side is the current average, and additional challenges unnecessarily add delays to proceedings.

The Administration is working collaboratively with the Judicial Council to develop and administer a competitive grant program to encourage courts to develop new ways of doing business. The projects funded by the grants must have measurable results or benefits that have a demonstrated impact on the court and the public it serves. The Budget includes $30 million General Fund on a one-time basis to fund these grants.

Many courts have demonstrated the capacity to adapt and innovate, resulting in programs and practices that save money and better serve the public. Successful examples of these improvements include: Fresno Superior Court's remote video proceedings for traffic violations, Imperial Superior Court's Binational Justice Project, Contra Costa Superior Court's efforts related to online probable cause determinations, and San Bernardino Superior Court's automated payment processing. Additional innovative programs could include a self-scheduling system for traffic courts, the use of kiosks for traffic court proceedings, and the development of electronic recordings in family courts.

2016-17 BUDGET

During the recession, General Fund support for the Judicial Branch was reduced like every area of state government; however, the state mitigated the impact of the reductions on the Judicial Branch through increased user fees, the redirection of various special funds, and the expenditure of trial court reserves. During the fiscal crisis, some trial courts were forced to reduce service hours, furlough and lay off employees, and close courtrooms, while other courts were able to fully maintain operations and even provide salary increases. The disparity in how trial courts handled the reductions highlighted the need for a comprehensive evaluation of the state's progress in achieving the goals outlined in the Trial Court Funding Act of 1997. A working group composed of Administration and Judicial Branch appointees made recommendations to better allocate existing resources. The Chief Justice and the Judicial Council, through a modification of the Workload Allocation Funding Model, have taken significant steps to promote equal access to justice by allocating funding more equitably to the trial courts.

JUDICIAL BRANCH

As shown in Figure JUD-01, after making various budget adjustments, trial court funding is proposed to be 10.5 percent above 2007-08 in 2016-17.

JUDICIAL BRANCH

Significant Adjustments:

- Trial Court Employee Costs—The Budget includes $15.6 million General Fund for trial court employee benefit costs, of which $7.4 million reflects funding for trial courts that have made progress towards meeting the Public Employees' Pension Reform Act of 2013 standard for employees sharing the cost of pension funding. Recognizing that many of these costs are beyond the control of the trial courts, the Administration will continue to fund future increases related to existing health benefits and retirement costs for trial court employees and retirees.
- Trial Court Trust Fund Revenues—The Budget includes a total of $75 million General Fund to backfill a continued reduction of fines and penalty revenues expected in 2016-17. This reflects an increase of $8.8 million compared to the amount needed in 2015-16.
- Proposition 47—Following the passage of Proposition 47 in November 2014, the trial courts have experienced increased workload due to the requirement that courts reclassify and resentence certain drug and property crimes that involve less than $950 from felonies to misdemeanors. The Budget includes $21.4 million General Fund to reflect the projected resentencing hearings in 2016-17. By the end of 2016-17, the Administration expects that the courts' workload associated with Proposition 47 will be significantly reduced or eliminated.
- Court Innovations Grant Program—The Budget includes an increase of $30 million General Fund on a one-time basis for a grant program that promotes improvement, efficiencies, and access to justice in the courts.
- Language Access—Given California's diversity, the court system is faced with significant linguistic challenges. The Judicial Council's current annual budget allocation for interpreter services is $94.5 million. To improve language access for limited English proficient court users, the Budget includes an additional $7 million General Fund to provide court interpreter services in civil proceedings.
- Trial Court Funding—An augmentation of $20 million General Fund for discretionary trial court operations.
- Fund Shift for Financial System—The Budget includes $8.7 million General Fund to fund the Phoenix Financial System, operated by Judicial Council staff, that provides the state with consistent financial information of trial court expenditures. It was previously funded from the State Trial Court Improvement and Modernization Fund (IMF). The IMF is intended to pay for innovative approaches to technology to support the trial courts. This fund shift is part of a multi-pronged approach to help with the solvency of the IMF and preserve critical programs.

JUDICIAL BRANCH

- State-Level Reserve—Currently, 2 percent of annual trial court allocations are held back until each spring, in case a court needs an emergency allocation. Any unused funds are allocated to all trial courts late in the year. The Budget proposes a new reserve policy for trial courts that avoids late allocations by providing $10 million General Fund one-time as a reserve in the Trial Court Trust Fund. If any funds from the reserve are used, they would be replenished annually out of base allocations to the trial courts.
- Deferred Maintenance—The Budget proposes $60 million one-time General Fund for deferred maintenance in the courts as prioritized by the Judicial Council. (For more information about deferred maintenance please see the Statewide Issues Chapter.)

- Inability to pay (for discussion, see §83.16);
- Seriousness of the offense;
- Circumstances of the offense;
- Defendant's economic gain, if any, from the crime;
- Pecuniary and intangible losses of victims or dependents of victims;
- Number of victims.

Criminal record. Defendant's criminal record is a relevant factor. People v Griffin (1987) 193 CA3d 739, 741-742, 238 CR 371; Cal Rules of Ct 4.411.5, 4.414.

Optional formula. In multicount felony cases the court may set the fine by using the formula stated in Pen C §1202.4(b)(2). See §83.17.

Juveniles. Factors to consider in juvenile cases are virtually the same as in cases involving adult offenders. See chart in §83.10.

c. [§83.16] Ability To Pay

Defendant is presumed to be able to pay the restitution fine and has the burden of demonstrating inability. Pen C §1202.4(d); People v Romero (1996) 43 CA4th 440, 448-449, 51 CR2d 26.

The court may consider future earning capacity. Pen C §1202.4(d); People v Gentry (1994) 28 CA4th 1374, 1376-1377, 34 CR2d 37 (court may consider defendant's future prison wages as well as possibility of employment when defendant is released from prison).

The court must impose the minimum fine even when defendant is unable to pay it. Pen C §1202.4(c); Welf & I C §730.6(b); People v Draut (1999) 73 CA4th 577, 582, 86 CR2d 469. The court may consider inability to pay only when increasing the amount of the restitution fine in excess of the $300 or $150 minimum. Pen C §1202.4(c). Such a mandate is not constitutionally infirm; however, imprisonment of an indigent defendant for nonpayment violates equal protection. People v Long (1985) 164 CA3d 820, 826-827, 210 CR 745.

d. [§83.17] Multiple Counts

Discretionary formula. For defendants convicted of several felony counts the court may calculate the fine by the following formula (Pen C §1202.4(b)(2)):

$300 x number of years of sentence x number of counts of which defendant was convicted.

Dear Judge Gonzalez Rogers:

Following today's conference call with the Court, the parties reached the following agreement to postpone Defendants' response date to Plaintiff's Complaint while Plaintiff pursues relief from Defendant Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento ("Superior Court"):

1. On or before Friday, February 10, 2017, Plaintiff Howard Hershships will file with the Superior Court (a) a request for ability to pay determination using the Superior Court's form (Ex Parte Application for Modification of Sentence Based on Ability to Pay), and/or (b) a request for participation in the one-time amnesty program for unpaid traffic tickets using the Superior Court's form (Amnesty Participation Form and Affidavit).
2. While the Superior Court considers Plaintiff's request(s), Plaintiff stipulates to provide Defendants a 30-day extension to respond to the Complaint to March 23, 2017.

Defendants' counsel and Plaintiff are copied on this e-mail. Please let us know if the Court requires any further documentation of the stipulation.

Thank you for facilitating today's conference call.

ORDER OF THE COURT: IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THE REQUEST FOR MODIFICATION OF SENTENCE IS:
☐ Granted:

- ☐ Fine is converted to community service. Must complete _____ hours by _____
- ☐ Fine balance remains the same but the monthly payment amount (for this case only) will be reduced to an amount not to exceed $10.00/month. In no event will the payment be increased as a result of this order. (i.e. if existing payment is already less than $10.00 per month).
- ☐ Fine balance at Department of Revenue Recovery reduced to _____.

☐ Denied for the following reasons:

- ☐ Medical Documentation to substantiate inability to complete community service insufficient..
- ☐ Verification of income and/or public assistance insufficient.
- ☐ Lack of jurisdiction.
- ☐ Severity of charges.
- ☐ Already provided relief under Traffic Amnesty Program.
- ☒ Other see attached order

Date:

2/8/17

- ☐ Department of Revenue Recovery will be notified that your monthly payment amount for this case has been reduced as indicated above.
- ☐ Department of Revenue Recovery will be notified that your outstanding balance for this case has been reduced as indicated above.

The Court has received and filed your application for Modification of Sentence based on Ability to Pay. The Court is, however, unable to process and evaluate the application because it is not complete. Specifically, you do not provide medical verification from a medical provider regarding your physical limitations and inability to do community service. This proof, for example, could be in the form of copies of key documents from your medical records or an opinion from a treating or evaluating physician or nurse. The Court in evaluating a fine reduction, fine elimination or reduced payments will consider whether any portion of the fine obligation can or should be satisfied by completing community service. The Court has available a variety of benign/chair easy community service options available through roughly 100 different reputable non-profit charitable organizations in Sacramento. When the application is complete with the information regarding your inability to do community service, the Court will quickly rule on the entirety of your request. In the absences of receiving additional information from you on this issue, the Court will rule in 30 days based on the information you have provided and will consider benign/chair easy community service as a possible option.

Mr. Howard R. Herships
P.O. Box 1501
Carmichael CA 95609

Re: Howard Herships v. Tani Cantil-Sakauye, et al.
Case No. 4:17-cv-00473 (YGR)
Our File No. 03470-147481

Dear Mr. Herships:

We write again to encourage you to apply to the Superior Court's amnesty program. While we cannot yet comment on whether you will qualify for a reduction in your outstanding fines pursuant to Rule 4.335, the potential relief available through the amnesty program will also assist in expediting the reinstatement of your license.

As you point out, California sets out certain specific qualifying parameters for individuals entitled to amnesty, pursuant to Vehicle Code section 42008.8(g). One of these qualifiers requires that the originating fines/citations were incurred on or before January 1, 2013. As your originating fines/citations occurred thereafter, you are correct that you are not entitled to the reduction or elimination of those fines through Section 42008.8. However, the guidelines do allow the Superior Court to exercise its discretion and extend amnesty to otherwise unqualified persons, such as yourself, to expedite the procedural hurdles in reinstating your license. Indeed, you were notified that the Superior Court had made such a determination in the DMV's July 28, 2016 correspondence, which informed you of the steps that you needed to take to avail yourself of this program.

As you acknowledge, you are not contesting that you cannot or will not pay the original fines incurred as a result of your citation. While we cannot comment yet on whether you are entitled to a reduction or elimination of the subsequent fees and assessments incurred as a result of your failure to pay those fines, pursuant to Rule 4.335, you will need to pay the original fines to secure reinstatement of your license. If you enroll in the amnesty program – which the Superior Court is willing to allow you to do – then you can expedite the payment and reinstatement.

The traffic amnesty application form can be downloaded online at: <https://www.saccourt.ca.gov/traffic/amnesty-program.aspx>. Once a payment plan has been established with GC Services, you will be in compliance and then you may submit your application and enrollment fee ($50.00) for the amnesty program to GC Services for processing. Once your application is processed and it is determined that you qualify for relief under the amnesty program, the FTP hold will be lifted from your account so that you can proceed with reinstatement through the DMV. You will also need to pay the reinstatement fee charged by the DMV ($55.00). You must also submit your application for the amnesty program to GC Services no later than March 31, 2017, although we recommend that you do so immediately.

To reiterate, the Superior Court will approve your enrollment in the amnesty program. Doing so will expedite the reinstatement of your driver's license while the Superior Court makes a determination on whether you are qualified to reduce the subsequent fees and fines incurred as a result of your failure to pay. It will also allow you to create a payment plan to address the original fines incurred as a result of your citations. The cost to you will be $105.00 plus the initial payment in your plan (which we are informed can be as low as $5.00). Once completed, your driver's license will be reinstated.

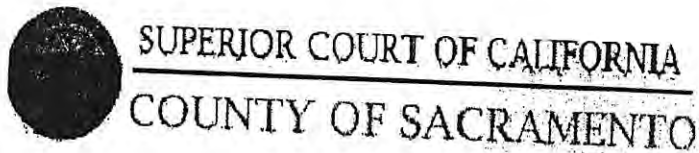

Please contact us if you have any additional questions.

Very truly yours,

Make Monthly Payments

Home > Traffic > Paying Fines > Make Monthly Payments

You may request monthly payments if you wish to pay the fine (bail) and close your case, but cannot do so all at once. There is an administrative fee of $35.00 for violations occurring 07/31/13 and before, OR a fee of $50.00 for violations occurring 08/01/13 and after added to the total amount due. You must also pay a down payment of 10 percent of the total fine at the time you sign up for payments.

1. To determine the down payment amount, view the 10% Down Payment Calculator. If you need assistance determining your down payment amount, contact the court at (916) 875-7800.
2. Once you know your down payment amount, print the Monthly Payment Request. Mail the completed form, plus the down payment to:

Sacramento Superior Court, Traffic Division
301 Bicentennial Circle, Room 100
Sacramento, CA 95826

Incomplete requests cannot be processed and may result in additional penalties.

Once your monthly payment plan has been established by the court, the Department of Revenue Recovery will process the monthly billing and payments on behalf of the court. Any questions or correspondence should be directed to the Department of Revenue Recovery- external link.

Failure to pay as agreed will result in your account becoming delinquent. Collection enforcement includes, but is not limited to, garnishment of your wages, seizure of funds in your bank account(s), placement of a lien on any real property you own, the balance of your fine reported to various credit bureaus as delinquent, and seizure of your California State Income Tax refund.

You cannot make monthly payments and request Traffic Violator School.

California Rules of Court

Rule 4.335. Ability-to-pay determinations for infraction offenses

(a) Application

This rule applies to any infraction offense for which the defendant has received a written Notice to Appear.

(b) Required notice regarding an ability-to-pay determination

Courts must provide defendants with notice of their right to request an ability-to-pay determination and make available instructions or other materials for requesting an ability-to-pay determination.

(c) Procedure for determining ability to pay

- (1) The court, on request of a defendant, must consider the defendant's ability to pay.
- (2) A defendant may request an ability-to-pay determination at adjudication, or while the judgment remains unpaid, including when a case is delinquent or has been referred to a comprehensive collection program.
- (3) The court must permit a defendant to make this request by written petition unless the court directs a court appearance. The request must include any information or documentation the defendant wishes the court to consider in connection with the determination. The judicial officer has the discretion to conduct the review on the written record or to order a hearing.
- (4) Based on the ability-to-pay determination, the court may exercise its discretion to:
  - (A) Provide for payment on an installment plan (if available);
  - (B) Allow the defendant to complete community service in lieu of paying the total fine (if available);
  - (C) Suspend the fine in whole or in part;
  - (D) Offer an alternative disposition.

- (5) A defendant ordered to pay on an installment plan or to complete community service may request to have an ability-to-pay determination at any time during the pendency of the judgment.
- (6) If a defendant has already had an ability-to-pay determination in the case, a defendant may request a subsequent ability-to-pay determination only based on changed circumstances.

Rule 4.335 adopted effective January 1, 2017

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (b). This notice may be provided on the notice required by rule 4.107, the notice of any civil assessment under section 1214.1, a court's website, or any other notice provided to the defendant.

Subdivision(c)(1). In determining the defendant's ability to pay, the court should take into account factors including: (1) receipt of public benefits under Supplemental Security Income (SSI), State Supplementary Payment (SSP), California Work Opportunity and Responsibility to Kids (CalWORKS), Federal Tribal Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (Tribal TANF), Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, California Food Assistance Program, County Relief, General Relief (GR), General Assistance (GA), Cash Assistance Program for Aged, Blind, and Disabled Legal Immigrants (CAPI), In Home Supportive Services (IHSS), or Medi-Cal; and (2) a monthly income of 125 percent or less of the current poverty guidelines, updated periodically in the Federal Register by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services under 42 U.S.C. § 9902(2).

Subdivision (c)(4). The amount and manner of paying the total fine must be reasonable and compatible with the defendant's financial ability. Even if the defendant has not demonstrated an inability to pay, the court may still exercise discretion. Regardless of whether the defendant has demonstrated an inability to pay, the court in exercising its discretion under this subdivision may consider the severity of the offense, among other factors. While the base fine may be suspended in whole or in part in the court's discretion, this subdivision is not intended to affect the imposition of any mandatory fees.
